pegroup@earthlink.net

As a performance psychologist, Jack Stark has been part of 22 national championships. He consults to professional and college football, basketball, hockey, Olympics, and NASCAR teams. He spent 17 years as the team psychologist for NASCAR's Hendrick Motorsports teams - with drivers Jeff Gordon, Jimmie Johnson (2006, 2007, 2008, 2010 & 2016 NASCAR Cup Championships), Dale Earnhardt, Jr., and Kasey Kahne. He also consulted to NASCAR teams at Team Red Bull with driver Brian Vickers (2003 Nationwide Champion while at Hendrick Motorsports). Jack provides psychological and performance enhancement training to elite athletes at the collegiate, professional, and Olympic levels. From 1989-2004, he was the team psychologist for the University of Nebraska Cornhusker football and basketball teams. He was also the team psychologist (13 years) for the University of Nebraska-Omaha's hockey team and with the National Championship Division II wrestling team until the sport was eliminated at UNO. He consulted to Creighton University's Athletics Department as its team psychologist from 2005-2021, where he used performance enhancement techniques with Doug McDermott, 3-time NCAA All-American and an NCAA National Player of the Year. Jack consulted with 27 National Champion college and Olympic wrestlers – gold and silver Olympic medalists. Nebraska's basketball team averaged 20 wins a year during his 13-year tenure and won the National Invitational Tournament in 1994. At Nebraska Huskers football, Dr. Stark improved the culture by instituting his Unity Council system, a structure allowing player participation for input to Coach Osborne. Nebraska's football team won 88% of its games during his tenure, including 3 National Championships. The Cornhusker football program achieved the highest winning percentage in all college football during the 1990s. The 1995 Nebraska football team was voted the 4th-best sports team of all-time at all levels. UNO's Maverick hockey program has been ranked in the top 10 nationally.

In his corporate consultations, Jack consulted to more than 50 Fortune 500 Companies providing psychological consultation and coaching to top executive officers. Conducting 250+ workshops nationally, he trained top corporate executives in team-building techniques. He has been featured in the New York Times, on ESPN, CNN, SPEED-TV, HBO, and ESPN Films 30 for 30 and was a monthly guest on a local TV affiliate.

Since earning his PhD degree in Counseling Psychology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1973, Jack's diverse career includes serving as faculty at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in the Departments of Psychiatry & Pediatrics, and at Creighton University Medical School Department of Psychiatry. He was full-time teaching and research faculty, patient care at UNMC for 20 years plus was an adjunct professor at Creighton University Medical School. At Physicians Clinic in Omaha, a multi-specialty medical clinic with 200 partners, Dr. Stark was a managing partner and the Director of Medical Psychology (1981-1997). In 1998, he incorporated as Performance Enhancement Group. He was also a consultant to the Center for Advanced Medicine in Jackson Hole, WY.

Dr. Stark was licensed in numerous states as a Clinical Psychologist. Over a span of 40 years in his medical practice, he provided psychological consultation to more than 10,000 individuals.

Jack has authored/co-authored 12 books, dozens of articles, and chapters, and has presented to schools, teams, and corporations 300+ times.

Stark is active in numerous local and national community-service and charitable organizations He served on the boards of foundations. Married 50+ years, the Starks have a son John (deceased), a son Nick (Liz), a daughter Suzy (Aaron) and 4 grandchildren.
